

Tuesday, June 23, 2020

Noon to 1 p.m. Pacific time

Compassion Fatigue: Trauma and the Cost of Caring

A virtual CME training for health care professionals

Following this training, attendees will be able to:

- Understand the unique properties of trauma-exposed work and the critical need to enhance individual resiliency.
- Define the difference between Trauma and Compassion Fatigue.
- Recognize the impact of chronic stress on themselves, their team and their organization.
- Develop a prevention toolkit to reflect their own reality and integrate their life circumstances and work challenges.

FREE!

Click here to register

The University of Idaho, WWAMI Medical Education Program is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The University of Idaho, WWAMI Medical Education Program designates this live activity for a maximum of 1.0 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in an activity.

Questions?

Contact North Idaho AHEC: nidahec@uidaho.edu or 208-885-0131

Sponsored by

Featuring
Joyce
Lyons,
Ph.D., LPC

Dr. Lyons is the Project Manager for the Rural Crisis Center Network, Idaho Public Health – North Central District.

This network includes crisis centers in Moscow, Lewiston and Orofino at present, with plans for additional possible sites in Idaho and Lewis County.

Dr. Lyons holds a Ph.D. in Education – emphasis on Counselor Education and Human Services – and has worked as a counselor, clinical supervisor, and program manager for the State of Idaho Behavioral Health program. Her passion and expertise in the field of Behavioral Health includes crisis intervention, prevention, and education.