

The Service-Learning Center is Open!

The Service-Learning Center is undergoing a transition with staff, but is still operating and providing services to service-learning faculty, students, and community members.

The search for a Service-Learning Faculty Fellow is underway. Until the position is filled, Vice Provost for Academic Affairs Jeanne Stevenson is overseeing the center, while the new VISTA member, Jessica Daniel, is handling its daily operations.

Hello to all Service-Learning Faculty Fellows and Instructors. This newsletter provides a quick update about the status of the Service-Learning Center and what to expect for the Spring 2014 semester.

IMPORTANT

If you have not already completed the email survey about your Fall 2013 course please do so as soon as possible. It is vital we collect information about your service-learning course to maintain our records and create our Annual Report. The survey should only take a few minutes of your time. Thank you! Please email completed surveys to servicelearning@uidaho.edu

Website Changes: Take a Look!

By early February 2014, the website will have undergone extensive renovations. This redesign is meant to improve the site's readability, usability and functionality. Changes to the website include:

- Updated faculty grant and assistance applications
- Updated contact information
- Broken web links fixed or removed
- New resources posted
- Revised and consolidated reference materials

New Resources

Resource Guides are now posted on the website. These guides are quick, easy-to-access information resources for faculty, students and partners. They are in PDF format for downloading and dissemination.

Topics Include:

- Service-Learning Basics
- Service-Learning for Students
- Community Partners Guide
- Reflection Activities
- Websites and Literature Resources

Visit the website for these guides and more great resources!
