A Passion for People and Places

Richard H. Holm Jr. '05 found his life's calling at the University of Idaho. But it's not like he simply signed up for a double major in writing and piloting small aircraft. Idaho still doesn't offer that combo. Read more.

University of Idaho to Expand Academic Program Offerings in Coeur d'Alene

The University of Idaho is expanding academic program offerings at the Coeur d'Alene center for fall semester. New offerings include a bachelor's degree program in English, introductory coursework in virtual technology and design (VTD), and upper division coursework in chemistry. Read more.

Idaho Researchers Earn Grant for High-Tech Tools to Study Watersheds

Idaho researchers are joining with scientists in Nevada and New Mexico to study watersheds in the western United States with the help of advanced computer simulations. The National Science Foundation has awarded the states a grant for a three-year project to analyze, visualize and explore watersheds. Read more.

2012 Alumni Survey Results

The results of the 2012 Survey of UI Undergraduate Alumni are now available on the Institutional Research and Assessment homepage at www.webpages.uidaho.edu/ira/assess/surveys.htm.

Safe Zone Open Training

There will be a Safe Zone training on Sept. 11, from 8-10 a.m. in the Clearwater room. Safe Zone programs promote the understanding and inclusion of gay, lesbian, bisexual, transgender people on campuses nationwide. The mission of the UI Safe Zone Program is to create a safe and welcoming atmosphere for GLBT students, faculty, and staff at the University of Idaho. Please RSVP to safezone@uidaho.edu if interested in attending.
