A Work in Progress: Celebrating the first 40 years of the Women's Center

History on campus can't be told without "her-story." That's why the University of Idaho's Women's Center is celebrating 40 years of helping women to achieve -- while recognizing that the work yet to be done and the center's mission are still every bit as relevant and crucial today as they were in 1972. "This is an important milestone, for not only the Women's Center, but for the University of Idaho community," says Heather Shea Gasser, Women's Center director. "The impacts that women and the center have made on this campus are far-reaching and cause for this celebration." Read more.

Growing Recreation and Tourism in North Idaho

Idaho overnight visitors statewide spent more than $1.8 billion in 2008, and in Kootenai County alone, recreation and tourism employs nearly 14 percent of the work force. To support this growing sector of the region's economy, University of Idaho Coeur d'Alene is introducing a Recreation and Tourism Speaker Series this October, featuring experts with insights into business, marketing and leadership development within the industry. Dia De Los Muertos "Day of the Dead" Altar and Calaveras Contests

The University of Idaho Dia de Los Muertos (Day of the Dead) Celebration is a traditional Mexican holiday that takes place on Nov. 1-2. The holiday dates back several centuries and is celebrated over numerous days in Mexico. During these days, Mexicans from different faiths and cultural backgrounds honor their ancestors and deceased loved ones. Indigenous people for centuries believed that souls did not die, that they continued living in Mictlán, a special place to rest. In this place, the spirits rest until the day they were allowed to return to their homes to visit their relatives. Before the Spaniards arrived, people celebrated the return of the souls between the months of July and August. Once they arrived, the Spaniards changed the festivities to Nov. 2 to coincide with All Souls’ Day of the Catholic Church. Read more.

Library Releases Gem of the Mountains Digital Yearbook Collection

The University of Idaho Library recently released the newly digitized Gem of the Mountains Digital Yearbook Collection. This collection showcases online, downloadable versions of each issue of the Gem of the Mountains Yearbook, which served as the annual for the University of Idaho from 1903 to 2004. These yearbooks contain a wealth of University of Idaho history. The early volumes feature stories and photographs of long-forgotten traditions, such as an annual sophomore-freshman fight that took place each St. Patrick's Day, the Homecoming bonfire, and the Gem Beauty Queen awards, which in 1948 were judged by Bing Crosby. All issues are viewable on both desktop and mobile devices and can be browsed in a magazine-like format. The entire collection is full-text searchable, allowing users to search for any University of Idaho alumna or alumnus.

The State Employees' Charitable Giving Campaign

Caring for Idaho – The State Employees' Charitable Giving Campaign is underway now through Oct. 31, 2012. This campaign is designed to help employees engage and mobilize our communities so individuals and families have an opportunity to succeed. With your help, the University of Idaho can have the greatest employee participation in Idaho. We can feed the hungry, educate and give support to folks from birth to the twilight years. Another perk of high Vandal participation is to outshine BSU and ISU. Read more.

Be Prepared -- My.Uidaho Portal Closes Friday

The My.Uidaho Portal will be decommissioned Friday evening. All the services you're accustomed to on the portal are available on VandalWeb, Blackboard or Banner Workflow. News and announcement channels are available on the University website. Please replace your existing personal bookmarks as needed and delete any bookmarks to <https://my.uidaho.edu>. The portal address, <https://my.uidaho.edu>, will be temporarily routed to an alternate launch page, which will provide direct links to VandalWeb and Banner Workflow. This launch page will be removed after in-progress workflows have been completed. This is expected to occur by mid-December, after which the portal address will no longer be available. Please contact the ITS Help Desk at helpdesk@uidaho.edu with any questions regarding this event.
