Change of Status Instructions to F-1

Please make an appointment with an ISSFS advisor for assistance.

Most students receive F-1 visas from their home country and enter the U.S. in F-1 status if they will pursue a full course of study in an academic institution or engage in language training. Some students are in J-1 (exchange visitor) status or hold other classifications such as dependents (F-2 or J-2), diplomats (A-1), or visitors (B-1), but would like to obtain the F-1 visa status to attend school full-time.

Eligibility: In order to change visa status, a student must:
- a) be accepted into a degree program at the UI
- b) be maintaining current non-immigrant status
- c) have a valid passport (valid for at least 6 months from application date), if a passport is required
- d) apply BEFORE the current authorized stay expires. At least 90 days before is recommended.

Directions to Change to F-1:
1. Receive a “change of Status I-20 from the ISSFS once accepted into a degree program at the UI.
2. Complete Form 1-539 (download from the website: http://uscis.gov/graphics/index.htm)
   - Use the International Programs Office address for the applicant’s address
   - International Programs Office, PO Box 1250, Moscow, ID 83844-1250
3. Write a cover letter addressed to USCIS requesting the change and explaining why the change is needed or requested
4. Make an appointment with an advisor in ISSFS to finalize application
5. Bring all the necessary documents (see “CHECKLIST” below) to scheduled appointment

Checklist: Please bring all the following documents to a scheduled appointment (be sure all copies (especially Port of Entry stamps) are readable:

- Fee of $300 made payable to: Department of Homeland Security
- Complete the online Form I-901 at: www.FMJfee.com. Pay $200 fee using a credit card and print receipt for COS application.

If student is in a status in which they are not authorized to work (i.e., F-2), the student may not work until you receive notification from USCIS that the F-1 status has been officially changed. Students also may not attend school full-time (if changing from F-2 to F-1) until the F-1 status is approved. This process can take up to three months, so it is essential to apply for the change of status as soon as possible once you have been admitted. If awarded a scholarship or assistantship, requests for expediting the process may be granted.

Send all application documents to: USCIS California Service Center
P.O. Box 10539
