Why Live On Campus?

Retention

- First Year students that live in the residence halls are 17% more likely to return to the University of Idaho than first-year students who live off campus. (Fall 2013 – Fall 2014 data)

Support

- More than 100 professional and student staff members serve the residence halls and provide a creative, safe, supportive, and entertaining environment for you to live in.

Friendships

- In our traditional residence halls, you are living on a floor with 40 people. Residence Halls house 400-1000 students, so you are bound to meet lots of friends!

60% of first-year students live in the residence halls.

Leadership opportunities

- Residence Life provides over 135 leadership opportunities.

Student Success

- The Resident Scholar Program awards $1,500 to students who live with University Housing while earning a degree in 4 years.

- 8 students received the Resident Scholar award in Spring 2014.

Retention

- 60% of first-year students live in the residence halls.

Leadership opportunities

- Employment opportunities if you live in the residence halls!

Wallace is home to nearly 800 students and is the center for student activity where the dining hall, Student Success Center, computer lab, and recreational lounge are located. Wallace has four wings: Ballard, Willey, Gooding, and Stevenson. Themes in Wallace include: Leadership Interest, Outdoor Interest, Gender Specific, 24-Hour Quiet, Social Justice, College of Agricultural and Life Science, and Fine Arts.

Theophilus Tower, one of the most popular residence halls, is an 11 story building for nearly 400 first year students. The Tower is home to students in every academic degree and is a community committed to helping students become involved on campus. Themes in the Tower include: Engineering and Computer Science, Women In Idaho Science and Engineering, and Honors.

McConnell is an academically focused living option for upper level students. Its single rooms offer an independent living environment. This 55 person building also includes a computer lab, lounge space, and community kitchen.

The Living Learning Communities (LLCs) combine the best qualities of academic and social living environments. The LLCs offer apartment style suites that include a kitchenette, shared restroom, and living space. Each LLC building provides a lounge space with fireplace, full size community kitchen, family room, and private study rooms. Themed LLC buildings and floors include: Scholars, Engineering, College of Natural Resources, and Global Living Experience.
We encourage you to explore our residence hall communities on our website or visit campus and take a tour to find the best fit for you!

You will need to be fully admitted to the University of Idaho before you can apply for University Housing.

You will use your NetID and Password to log into the Housing application.

Log into the online application and pay the $200 deposit to reserve a room.

Cancellations must be received in writing by July 1 to receive half of your deposit ($100). Cancellations received after July 1 forfeit the entire $200 deposit.

Once your deposit is paid, fill out a brief questionnaire about your lifestyle habits and then view all of the available rooms on campus.

If you have a roommate in mind, we encourage you to apply at the same time to ensure that you will get a room together. If not, you can view your potential roommates’ lifestyle questionnaire and once you have selected a room, contact them via their VandalWeb email.

You will also choose your meal plan. View meal plan options online at www.uidaho.edu/dining.

You can continue to change your room by canceling your current room assignment until July 31. Please note that if you cancel your current room choice, it is immediately available for others to choose.
