About the Open Doors Report:

The Open Doors Report on International Educational Exchange is published by the Institute of International Education, the leading not-for-profit educational and cultural exchange organization in the United States. IIE has conducted an annual statistical survey of campuses regarding the international students in the United States since 1919, and with support from the U.S. Department of State's Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs since the early 1970s. The census is based on a survey of approximately 3,000 accredited U.S. institutions. Open Doors also conducts and reports on separate surveys on U.S. students studying abroad for academic credit (since 1985), and on international scholars at U.S. universities and international students enrolled in pre-academic Intensive English Programs.

INTRODUCTION

Susan Bender, Ph.D.

Executive Director
International Engagement and Programs

The issues confronting today's leaders require the ability to understand and address both local and global challenges. In order to build inclusive and prosperous communities, future leaders must possess the knowledge, skills, and cultural understanding that can transcend the borders of our interconnected world.

—Dr. Allan Goodman, President and CEO,
Institute of International Education

Academic and intellectual exchanges spark innovation and go a long way in preparing the next generation of global citizens. International experience equips students who will become tomorrow's leaders with vital skills that are crucial to their ability to succeed in global careers and work together across borders.

Utilizing IIE's annual Open Doors Report on International Educational Exchange as a model, the International Programs Office offers statistics and analysis on various aspects of international exchange and global learning at the University of Idaho. The Open Doors Report provides national and global data on trends in international educational exchange, and the International Profile provides college and university data using similar criteria.

Opportunities to engage internationally surround students, faculty, and staff at the University of Idaho. Below are just a few ways to engage with the world:

- Live, study, and interact with over 730 international students from 72 nations from throughout the world. Talk about a powerful social network!
- Study abroad in Spain, Italy, Ghana, China, Brazil, Nepal, Australia, or one of the other 70 countries where UI has established programs with 400 universities.
- Receive funding to study or work abroad through our “International Experience Fund.”
- Enhance your marketability with an international internship in one of 32 countries.
- Study and conduct research with internationally recognized faculty from the U.S. and abroad.
- Participate in cultural events, programs, and activities that occur weekly.
- Teach abroad through an established program or design your own international course.
- Enhance your English skills in the intensive American Language and Culture Program.
- Apply for a prestigious Fulbright Award and host international Fulbrighter’s on campus.
- Invite international academics to teach and collaborate on research as Visiting Scholars.
- Connect to the local community through the Friendship Families Program and other international outreach activities.

The services provided by the International Programs Office (IPO) are connected to nearly every aspect of the University of Idaho. The IPO staff is passionate about transforming lives and supporting a globally engaged university community.

To learn more about your international opportunities, review www.uidaho.edu/international or visit the International Programs Office, located in Living Learning Community Building, #3.

Additional Information about ALCP Language Levels

▶ The ALCP provides non-native speakers of English with the linguistic, academic, social and cultural skills necessary to successfully navigate university environments in the United States.

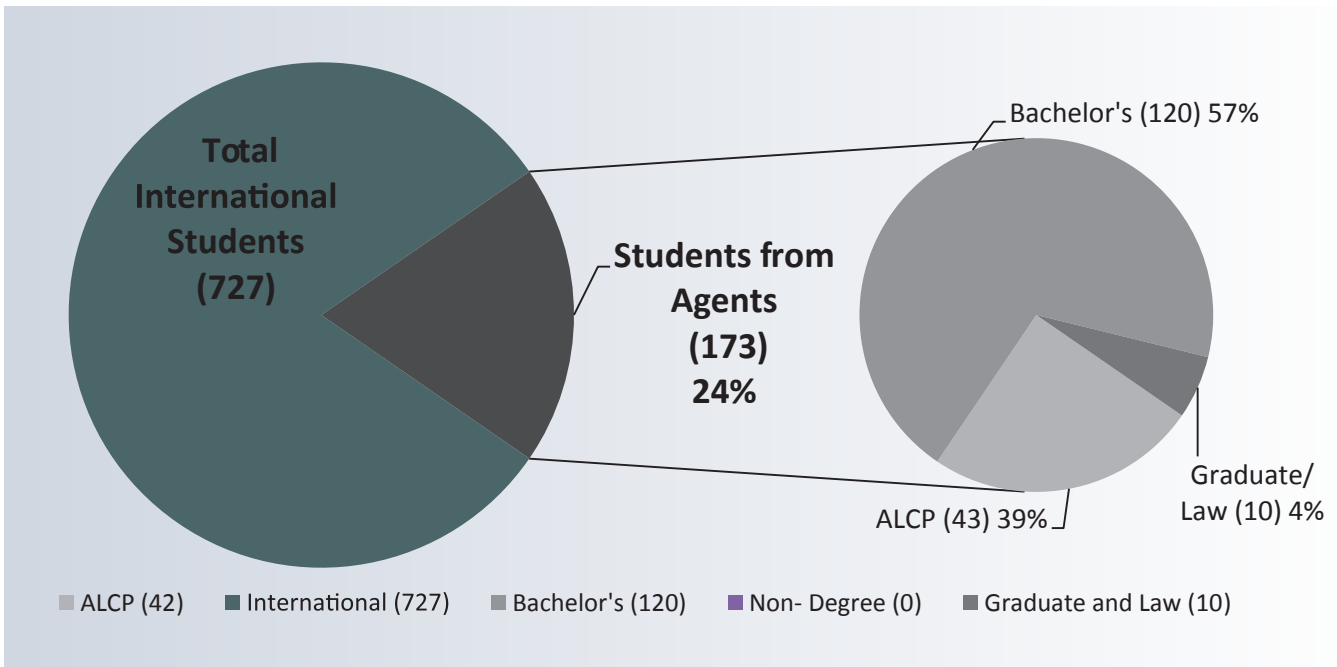

Undergraduate Conditional Admissions:

▶ Conditional admission may be granted to applicants who qualify academically, but have not yet met the University of Idaho minimum English language requirements for full admission.

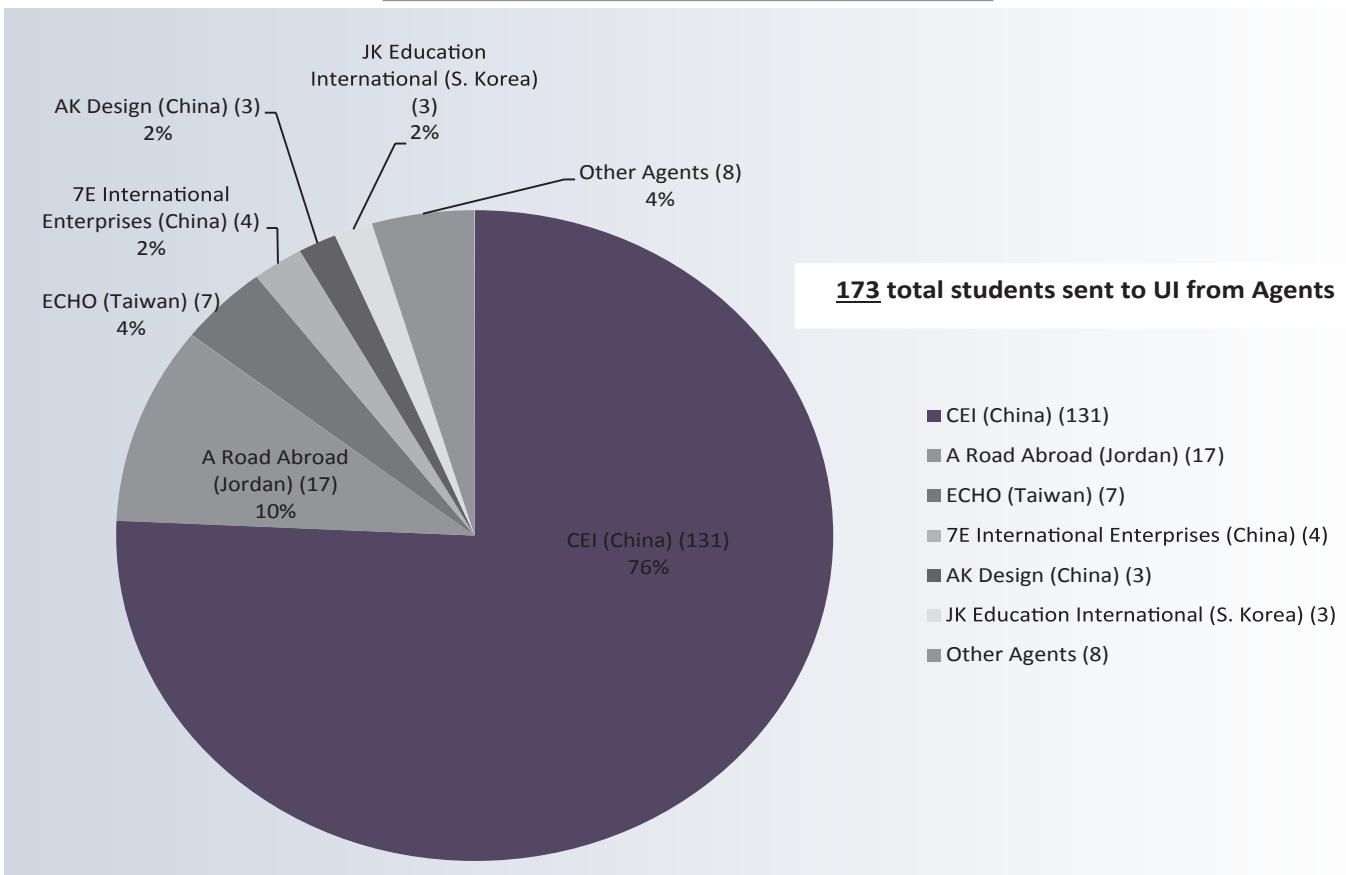

Students granted conditional admission, at the University of Idaho, must enroll and complete Level 5 of the ALCP program to achieve the minimum language requirement.

▶ Level 6 of the ALCP program prepares graduate level students for academic skills often required in graduate school.

Faculty

Interested in leading an FSIT?

- Who is your target audience?
- What country would you like to visit?
- Can this course run more than one time?
- When do you want to offer the course and for what length?

Leading an FSIT will give you the opportunity to gain international experience.

Network with colleagues at foreign institutions and learn ways to internationalize your curriculum.

Faculty-Led International Travel Experience

An FSIT is an academic course involving traditional classroom learning and experiential learning in an international setting. FSITs provide faculty and students first-hand opportunities to investigate other cultures and enhance academic development.

FSITs are initiated, developed, organized and led by full-time members of the University of Idaho faculty, with assistance from the International Programs Office (IPO).

This global opportunity is ideal for students who are unable to do a traditional study abroad program or want to build on their global experiences.

▶ The Exchange Visitor (J) non-immigrant Visa category is for individuals approved to participate in work-and-study-based exchange visitor programs.

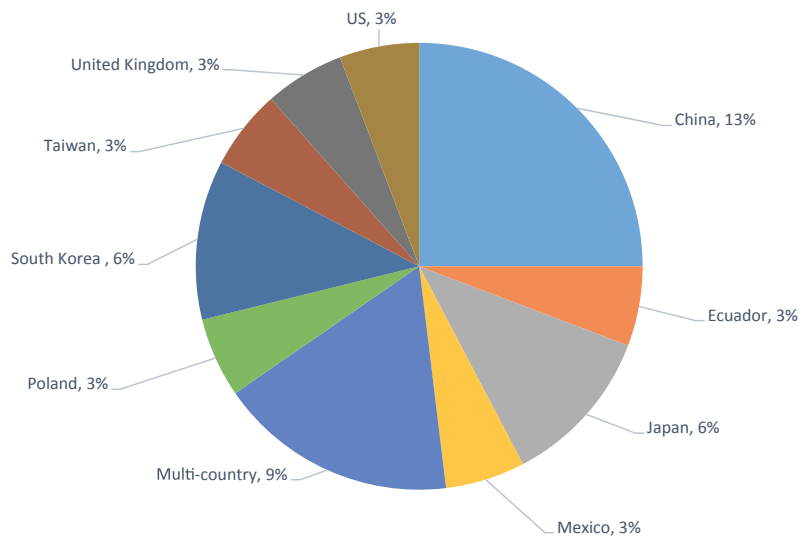

▶ The J-1 Visa provides countless opportunities for international candidates looking to travel and gain experience in the United States. The multifaceted programs enable foreign nationals to come to the U.S. to teach, study, conduct research, demonstrate special skills or receive on the job training for periods ranging from a few weeks to several years.

▶ The exchange of professors and research scholars promotes the exchange of ideas, research, mutual enrichment and linkages between research and academic institutions in the United States and foreign countries.

OTHER UNIVERSITY-WIDE INFORMATION

The Martin Institute

The Martin Institute is a dynamic teaching, research, and outreach center at the University of Idaho dedicated to understanding the causes of war, the conditions necessary for peace, and the international system. Founded by Boyd and Grace Martin, the Institute has worked to implement that vision via a host of endeavors since 1979. Partnerships with the Borah Committee, the Program in International Studies, and the Martin School are but a few of the lasting contributions to emerge in the ensuing years.

International Studies majors will benefit from the Martin Institute programs. Institute staff members are dedicated to providing students with a dynamic and challenging environment, and offer individual advising and mentoring.

The Martin Institute administers an undergraduate major and minor in International Studies. This interdisciplinary program is designed to prepare students for success in the evolving international community.

An International Studies degree will provide the global perspective and competitive edge in careers that will help you meet the challenges of tomorrow.

International Studies, B.A.

We live in an increasingly interconnected world. Professionals in business, economics, government, human services and other fields work frequently across borders to address the challenges that face our global community.

In this program, the student will learn about international political, economic and social issues, become proficient in a foreign language, and develop expertise in a region of the globe that interests them. The student will also spend at least 12 weeks abroad immersed in an international culture.

Students can concentrate their studies on international relations, global resources and development, or international economics and business.

Modern Languages and Culture

The study of a language or culture is a way of expanding one's horizons while developing specific linguistic skills that will enhance career, academic, personal and travel opportunities.

Students who take modern language, literature and culture courses to complete a MLC major or minor will:

- Gain a deeper understanding of a variety of cultures, including their own
- Become highly competitive in the international and domestic workforce
- Increase their analytical/critical thinking and communication skills
- Understand and make connections within the interdependent nature of the world
- Become engaged world citizens

The Department of Modern Languages & Cultures offers a Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in two modern languages (Spanish and French) together with a pre-professional option of Modern Language Business. The department also offers minors in German and Asian Studies as well as elementary, intermediate and advanced intermediate language and culture courses in Japanese and beginning courses in Chinese. In addition, a cooperative course agreement with Washington State University in nearby Pullman makes it possible for students to complete basic courses in Russian and upper division Chinese.

Confucius Institute

The University of Idaho Confucius Institute's mission is to further the understanding of Chinese language and culture, to encourage faculty and student exchange, and to foster economic development between the United States and China. In this endeavor, the university is partnering with the South China University of Technology in Guangzhou, China.

The Confucius Institute's Headquarters has set up the "Confucius China Studies Program." The Program consists of six subprograms in the academic areas of Humanities and Social Sciences.

The programs were developed in order to:

- Foster deep understanding of China and the Chinese culture among young generations from around the world
- Enable the prosperous growth of China studies
- Promote the sustainable development of Confucius Institutes
- Enhance the friendly relationship between China and the people of other countries

Faculty Travel/Study Abroad

You have the degree and the expertise, but what kind of international experience do you have? As many college and university campuses seek to internationalize, they understand that the key to providing a global education is well-traveled, knowledgeable professors.

Take inventory of your travel/study abroad experience. Do you have connections with colleagues in other countries? Have you ever lived or worked outside of your home country? Do you speak another language?

What are the benefits of a professor with international experience? For students, it creates a more diverse classroom experience, challenges them to think globally, and opens up avenues for cultural awareness.

Students are more likely to make a decision to study abroad if one of their professors convinced them it was important. When faculty see the value, and they've experienced it firsthand, they encourage students to have the same experience.

One of the most powerful recruitment tools we have at the University of Idaho, for convincing students, faculty and scholars from other countries to visit our campus, is the professor who has benefited from an international learning experience.

There are many travel/study abroad opportunities for faculty at the University of Idaho, and on the following pages we've highlighted a few - it's a good starting place.

How can we help you?

Please contact us in the International Programs Office and let us help you get started on an international travel/study abroad adventure.

Grab your passport and plan your trip!

Teach Abroad with USAC

The University of Idaho, in collaboration with the University Studies Abroad Consortium (USAC), offers international teaching opportunities for full-time visiting faculty.

- Create global awareness at home by teaching abroad
- Establish contacts with foreign colleagues
- Enhance your foreign language acquisition
- Diversify course curriculum
- Develop international relationships for research
- During the semester abroad, visiting faculty will receive their regular salary and benefits.
- Travel reimbursement is provided by USAC.
- Teach in Brazil, Chile, China, Costa Rica, Czech Republic, England, France, Germany, Ghana, India, Ireland, Italy, Spain, or Thailand.
- Choose from a one-month (Summer or January) program, or a Semester program. Compensation varies based on the program for which you apply.
- Qualified dependents and companions of faculty are eligible to take USAC courses at a discounted rate.

Deadlines: January 15, 2014 for teaching in Summer-2015, Fall-2015, January Term-2016, and Spring-2016.

For more information about faculty teaching abroad with USAC, please contact the International Programs Office (IPO) - Study Abroad at (208) 885-7870 or abroad@uidaho.edu.

FIDA: Faculty International Development Awards

The International Programs Office invites UI faculty to apply for scholarship funding to participate in the USAC sponsored study abroad program for language study.

Here are just a few of the benefits:

- No previous language study is required.
- Study abroad in one summer session.
- 2014 summers sessions are available in: Brazil, Chile, China (2 locations), Costa Rica (3 locations), Czech Republic, France, Germany, Ghana, India, Italy (2 locations), Spain (4 locations) and Thailand..
- Gain an understanding of the full study abroad experience including curriculum, intergration opportunites, faculty, housing, and field trips.
- Preference is given to faculty with limited international experience.
- Two to five awards are given away annually.
- The grant covers tuition and a stipend of $2,000 to use toward the cost of housing and airfare.

Deadline is December 2nd, 2013 for awards for Summer 2014.

For more information regarding the UI/USAC Faculty International Development Award (FIDA), please contact Bob Neuenschwander in the UI International Programs Office (IPO) at (208)885-4379 or bobn@uidaho.edu.

FSIT: Faculty-Led International Travel Experience

An FSIT is an academic course involving traditional classroom learning and experiential learning in an international setting. FSITs provide faculty and students first-hand opportunities to investigate other cultures and enhance academic development.

FSITs are initiated, developed, organized, and led by full-time members of the University of Idaho faculty, with assistance from the International Programs Office (IPO).

This global opportunity is ideal for students who are unable to do a traditional study abroad program or want to build on their global experiences.

A Grant of $10,000 may be available to go towards FSIT program creation.

Interested in leading a FSIT?

Who is your target audience? What country would you like to visit? Can this course run more than one time? When do you want to offer the course and for what length?

- Gain international experience
- Network with colleagues at foreign institutions
- Earn additional salary
- Learn ways to internationalize your curriculum

If you're interested in developing a program, please contact IPO for deadlines and additional information.

For more information about Faculty-Led International Travel (FSIT), please contact the International Programs Office (IPO) - Study Abroad at (208) 885-7870 or abroad@uidaho.edu.

CIEE International Faculty Development Seminars

The Council on International Educational Exchange (CIEE) faculty seminars are more than guided tours. They are intensive educational experiences designed to explore fascinations, challenge preconceptions, and open eyes to global issues shaping the world today.

- Each program features lectures, site visits, and discussions with overseas colleagues.
- Choose from unique and challenging seminar themes:
 - » Architecture
 - » Arts & Humanities
 - » Business
 - » Environment
 - » Health
 - » International Relations
 - » Social Sciences
- Programs vary, but range from 10-14 day itineraries, with some extension possibilities.
- Design and lead your own international program with the support and expertise of the CIEE Custom and Faculty-Led department.
- Winter, spring, or summer sessions.
- More than 30 options around the world.
- 15 Ping Faculty Development Fellowships of $1,000 each will be awarded to accepted applicants participating in 2014 seminars. Funding deadlines are: Spring Seminar (2-3-14), Summer Seminar (3-1-14).

For more information, visit the International Programs Office (IPO), where catalogs are available in Study Abroad (208) 885-7870 or abroad@uidaho.edu. Or go to www.ciee.org/ifds.

German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD)

The Deutscher Akademischer Austausch Dienst (DAAD) / German Academic Exchange Service is a private, publicly funded, self-governing organization of higher education institutions in Germany.

- Faculty Research Grants (1-3 months) approximately $2,500 to $3,000 per month.
- Faculty-Led Group Study Visit Grant - 10-15 students (plus one faculty member) for a 7-12 day trip to Germany with funding up to approximately $12,765 to subsidize room and board.
- DAAD Visiting Professorships - Funding provided to serve as a visiting professor at a German university (1 semester to 2 years)
- Learn German in Germany - 4 weeks of language classes at Goethe-Institut in Germany. A stipend of approximately $2,284 covers tuition, health insurance, room and partial board.

Additional opportunities include :

Germany Today - an annual week-long tour of German universities and research institutions.

Science Tour - For Faculty and Administrators: an annual week-long tour of German research institutions, university research and research done by German industry. Themes rotate each year.

For more information, visit the International Programs Office (IPO), in the Study Abroad Office (208) 885-7870 or abroad@uidaho.edu. Or go to <https://www.daad.org/faculty> for complete offerings.

FRIENDSHIP FAMILIES

Student Information

What is the Friendship Family Program?

- Friendship Families is a program that matches international students with local families.
- The purpose of Friendship Families is to give students and families the opportunity to build relationships and share cultures.
- Students and families arrange to spend time together on their own as often as mutually desired (usually, at least once a month).
- Friendship Families may include their student in informal dinners, holiday celebrations, occasional family outings, or any other event that adds to the richness of his/her experience in the U.S.
- University of Idaho students often invite their Friendship Families to on-campus events and programs open to the public.
- The initial commitment is for one semester, but many students and families choose to remain in contact and maintain their relationships throughout the students' time at the university, and even beyond.
- Friendship Families include university faculty members, administrators, and staff members, as well as residents from Moscow and nearby towns.
- Friendship Families may be individuals, couples, partners, or families with children of various ages.

How do I apply?

- A. You may fill out the attached form and turn it in during orientation or drop it off at the IPO office.
- OR -
- B. Go online and complete the form at the following URL:
www.uidaho.edu/international
 - i. Click on the "Friendship Families" button on the left side of the page.
 - ii. Select International Students form.
- C. Once the IPO receives and processes the request, a confirmation email will be sent to you.
- D. Once a match is found, and introductory email will be sent to you and the family.
