Title IX

At the University of Idaho

The University of Idaho is deeply committed to creating and sustaining an educational, working, and living environment that is conducive to learning and scholarship and is supportive of students and employees. Part of this commitment is fostering a campus free from sex-based discrimination, to include sexual misconduct, in all its forms. Our goal is to foster an open and safe community where these behaviors are not tolerated and where those who are affected are provided support, through a fair and impartial review process.

All University employees are required to report any sex-based discrimination or harassment, to include sexual misconduct, which they learn about to the Title IX Coordinator. Only those who are designated as confidential resources may maintain confidentiality.

Interim and supportive measures are available as assistance for individuals before, during, after, or separate from any investigation that might occur related to sex-based discrimination. This may include:
- Academic support, including class or assignment adjustments
- Health and safety measures
- On-campus housing assistance
- Employment scheduling adjustments
- No Contact Orders

It is UI policy to prohibit and eliminate discrimination on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex, sexual orientation and gender identity/expression, age, disability, or status as a Vietnam-era veteran. This policy applies to all programs, services, and facilities, and includes, but is not limited to, applications, admissions, access to programs and services, and employment.
Title IX prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex in educational programs or activities. Discrimination includes sexual harassment, sexual violence, stalking, partner violence, and more.
