CETL Workshops Lead or Co-Facilitated

Success Beyond the Classroom: How tutoring and peer-assisted study (SI-PASS) can help your students succeed. Organized and co-facilitated with Bart Sonnenberg and Tutoring and College Success Team, September 2021

Jumping Into Online: Spring 2020: Upon the onset of the pandemic, CETL facilitated 18 workshops to support instructors in sudden need to transition to online/virtual teaching and learning. As faculty associate, I fully participated in weekly CETL staff meetings for the quick planning and nimble implementation of all workshops based on instructor needs. I attended as a support person and/or chat moderator more than half of these workshops.

Keeping My Class Inclusive: Diversity, Inclusion, and Universal Design Online, Erin Chapman and Alex Hollingshead

Hyflex Teaching: Summer 2020: To support UI instructors in planning for a flexible fall semester, CETL facilitated 14 workshops to support instructors in course (re)design for hyflex and online/virtual teaching and learning. As faculty associate, I fully participated in weekly CETL staff meetings throughout the summer to assist with demands on CETL in helping faculty respond to the unknown of the fall semester teaching and learning environment. I attended as a support person and/or chat moderator more than half of these workshops.

What do I tell my students, part 2: Common syllabus language for a flexible fall, Barbara Kirchmeier and Erin Chapman

Making Your HyFlex and Online Classes Accessible and Inclusive, Alex Hollingshead, Amy Taylor and Erin Chapman

Free Technologies to Enhance Engagement in your HyFlex Class, Cassidy Hall, Erin Chapman and Katrina Eichner

Flexible Teaching: Fall 2020: Considering the heavy rotation of workshops in the spring and summer, CETL took a more individualized approach assisting and supporting instructors in the fall semester, with fewer workshops.

Keeping it Inclusive, Keeping it Accessible, Erin Chapman, Amy Taylor and Alex Hollingshead
