Dr. Ron Hanson currently holds the title of Harlan Agribusiness Professor Emeritus at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Dr. Hanson has counseled and worked with farm families for more than 40 years to help them resolve family conflicts in a more positive manner and to improve family relationships through better communications. His mission statement is to both encourage and motivate farm families by helping family members to develop business management strategies and to begin implementing a succession planning process that will accomplish a transfer of farm ownership and a transition of management control that keeps their farming operation in the family as well as family members on their farm so that their family farming legacy continues with success for future generations.
