The Interdisciplinary Studies degree allows the flexibility to reach beyond disciplinary boundaries to create a degree program tailored to a student's specific interests and goals.
The Interdisciplinary Studies program normally is developed and presented before the end of the second semester of the junior year or at the time when at least 30 credits of the proposed program remain to be taken.
Students work closely with a faculty advisor to develop a coherent course of study that will meet both university requirements and the student's personal objectives. The curriculum combines the elements of two or more departments, one of which must be in the College of Letters, Arts and Social Sciences.
Interested students should consult with a UI advisor as early as possible to create a study plan.
