All STEM Fields

- AISES — American Indian Science and Engineering Society
  AISES strives “to substantially increase the representation of American Indian and Alaskan Natives in engineering, science, mathematics, and other related technology disciplines.” The AISES website offers a job board where employers can post job opportunities. AISES also publishes a quarterly magazine, Winds of Change. As “the premier nationally distributed magazine published with a single-minded focus on career and educational advancement for American Indian and Alaska Native people in STEM,” Winds of Change can be a “valuable recruitment tool for corporations, government agencies, tribal and non-tribal businesses, and colleges and universities across the US.”

- AWIS — Association for Women in Science
  “Dedicated to achieving equity and full participation for all women in science, technology, engineering and mathematics,” AWIS provides an online job bank in which employers can list job openings and view posted résumés. Job announcements can also be advertised in the AWIS Magazine.

- National Organization of Gay and Lesbian Scientists and Technical Professionals
  This organization provides mentoring and networking opportunities for “lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and queer individuals in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics.” Recipients of the organizations recognition awards, particularly recipients of the GLBTA Educator of the Year Award, may help publicize job listings and/or recommend candidates.

- SACNAS
  “SACNAS is a society of scientists dedicated to advancing Hispanics/Chicanos and Native Americans in … science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) research, teaching, leadership, and policy.” Institutions may post job announcements online.

AGRICULTURAL SCIENCES — GENERAL

- MANRRS — Minorities in Agriculture, Natural Resources, and Related Sciences
  With membership open to people of all racial and ethnic groups, the mission of MANRRS is to promote “academic and professional advancement by empowering minorities in agriculture, natural resources, and related sciences.”

AGRICULTURAL AND APPLIED ECONOMICS

- COSBAE — Committee on the Opportunities and Status of Blacks in Agricultural Economics
  A section of the AAEA Agricultural and Applied Economics Association, COSBAE promotes “the welfare of Black agricultural economists by representing their interests and by engaging in activities that encourage their professional advancement.” COSBAE publishes a Newsletter in which job announcements can be posted. Its website includes a list of COSBAE leaders and links to information about speakers and events it sponsors at the AAEA Annual Meeting.

- CWAE — Committee on Women in Agricultural Economics
  This section of the AAEA Agricultural and Applied Economics Association aims to “promote the welfare of women and other underrepresented groups in the profession of agricultural economics by representing their interests and by engaging in activities that encourage their professional advancement through networking and leadership opportunities.” The CWAE publishes a newsletter in which job openings can be posted. Its website lists committee officers, highlights women who have been elected as Fellows of the AAEA, and provides information about speakers and events the committee sponsors at the AAEA Annual Meeting.

AGRONOMY, CROPS, SOIL SCIENCES, AND ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCES

- Diversity in Agronomy, Crops, Soils, and Environmental Sciences Committee
  This committee of the American Society of Agronomy (ASA), the Crop Science Society of America (CSSA), and the Soil Science Society of America (SSA) serves “to promote the status of minorities in the three societies, to encourage minorities to achieve professional excellence, to establish networks of minorities in agricultural science, to sponsor meetings to address issues of special concern to minorities in agriculture, and to foster the informal exchange of information and contacts in support of professional activities of minorities.” The committee’s website provides a list of current and past members.

- Women in Agronomy, Crops, Soils, and Environmental Sciences Committee
  This committee of the American Society of Agronomy (ASA), the Crop Science Society of America (CSSA), and the Soil Science Society of America (SSA) serves “to promote the status of women in the three societies, to encourage women to achieve professional excellence, to establish networks of women in agricultural science, to sponsor meetings to address issues of special concerns to professional women in agriculture, and to foster the informal exchange of information and contacts in support of professional activities of women.” The committee’s website provides a list of current and past members.

ARTS

- College Art Association — Committee on Diversity Practices
  The goals of this committee include promoting “artistic, curatorial, scholarly, and institutional practices that deepen appreciation of political and cultural heterogeneity as educational and professional values.” The committee sponsors sessions at the College Art Associations annual meetings and plans to provide “a central listing of multicultural artists who could be called on by CAA members and their institutions as resources, whether as visiting artists, exhibitors, or guest speakers, or for research.”

- College Art Association — Committee on Women in the Arts
  “The Committee on Women in the Arts promotes the scholarly study and recognition of the contributions by women to the visual arts; … monitors the status of women in the visual-arts professions; and researches and provides historic and current resources on feminist issues.” Its website lists members, sponsored conference sessions, and other resources.

- Women’s Caucus for Art
  The goals of the Women’s Caucus for Art include “recognizing the contributions of women in the arts; providing women with leadership opportunities and professional development; expanding networking and exhibition opportunities for women; [and] advocating for equity in the arts for all.” Their website includes links to member’s webpages and publications, information about annual conferences, and lists of recipients of annual achievement awards.

ASTRONOMY/ASTROPHYSICS

- AAS — American Astronomical Society: Committee on the Status of Minorities
  The mission of this committee is “to enhance the participation of underrepresented minorities in Astronomy and Astrophysics at all levels of experience.” In order to accomplish this mission, the committee strives to “strengthen interactions amongst minorities in the field, and provide connections to specific programs and job opportunities. This includes fostering mentoring and networking, which will connect junior members to more senior members in aid of moving people into programs or jobs.” The committee’s website lists committee members and provides links to the Spectrum Newsletter and other resources.

- AURA — Association of Universities for Research in Astronomy: Workforce and Diversity Committee
  This committee’s goal “is to strengthen AURA’s role in increasing the participation from underrepresented groups as well as institutions and geographic areas that have not had the opportunity to contribute to AURA’s mission and the overall field of astronomy.” Committee members are listed on this website.

- Astronomers of the African Diaspora
  This list profiles PhD astronomers and astrophysicists of African descent. Women included in this listing are identified with a “W” placed adjacent to their name. Search committee can use this listing to expand professional networks and request referrals to potential job applicants.

BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES

- ASCB — American Society for Cell Biology: Minority Affairs Committee
  As part of its goal “to increase the number of underrepresented minority scientists,” the ASCB’s Minority Affairs Committee works to promote the professional development of minority scientists by mentoring minority scientists at all levels, from undergraduate students through junior faculty members, and to “establish a network involving minority scientists and minority science students.” The committee offers a number of programs including a Visiting Professorship Award that provides “research support for professors at minority-serving institutions to work in the laboratories of members of the American Society for Cell Biology” during the summer, a Poster Session held during the ASCB annual meeting and the E.E. Just Lectureship and Award presented at the ASCB Annual Meeting “to acknowledge an outstanding minority life scientist.” Participating in the Visiting Professorship Award program and attending the E.E. Just Lecture and the Minority Affairs Committees’ Poster Session can help departmental and search committee members expand the diversity of their professional networks. In addition, search committee members can contact members of the Minority Affairs Committee (listed on their website) to ask for referrals to potential job applicants and for assistance in publicizing job openings.

- ASCB — American Society for Cell Biology: Women in Cell Biology (WICB)
  A longstanding committee of the ASCB, WICB addresses issues of “underrepresentation of women in academia in general and in cell biology in particular.” WICB produces monthly columns for the ASCB Newsletter, provides several professional development programs for women scientists, and presents career recognition awards at the ASCM Annual Meeting. The Junior Award recognizes exceptional scientific contributions by “a woman in an early stage of her career” and the Senior Award recognizes “a woman or man in a later career stage” who combines “outstanding scientific achievement [with] a a long-standing record of support for women in science.” Recipients of these awards are listed on the WICB webpage.
