Students who live on University of Idaho’s classic residential campus tend to have higher grades and graduate faster. We believe one-on-one interactions between Residence Life staff and students grow a support network to find success, and accomplish more.

Living in the residence halls puts students at the center of the action.

Residence halls are conveniently located. Residents are minutes from classes, the library and Commons, exciting sporting events, the Kibbie Dome, an award-winning Student Recreation Center, and vibrant cultural events like the Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival.

Getting involved helps students acquire leadership skills and create friendships that last a lifetime. A variety of leadership positions are available:

- Residence Hall Association
- Community Council
- Resident Assistant
- Academic Peer Mentor

Housing and Residence Life provides a safe, supportive living and learning experience.

Once you are admitted to the University of Idaho, you can apply for housing.

The housing portal and application use your Vandal NetID and Password.

A deposit of $200 reserves your room.

Have a roommate in mind? Both of you can select the same room during the application process. If you don’t, don’t worry, once you’ve chosen your room, you will receive your roommate’s contact information.

Select a Vandal Dining meal plan and check your vandal email for housing updates.

* Vandal Dining plans average $2,000 per semester and are required for first year students.

There are no bunked beds in the Tower.

The Tower costs $4,430 for a double room per academic year.
Wallace Residence Center

Wallace Residence Center is home to first-year and upper level students. Wallace Residence Center is a multi-wing building containing Willey, Gooding, Ballard, and Stevenson. Suite-style rooms with shared bathroom on co-ed floors.

The center of student activity

Home to nearly 1,000 students, Wallace is a great option for students looking for both convenience and fun. The Wallace basement includes a game room, laundry room, large recreational lounge space, and computer lab. The dining hall, The Hub, is conveniently located on the first floor.

Updated
Renovated suites boast fresh paint, new carpets, and modern surface tops for desks and vanity.

Store all your stuff
Large built-in shelves, wardrobes, and desk drawers provide the most storage of any other on-campus living option.

Room includes a sink
Each room in the Wallace suite contains a sink with large countertop and vanity complete with ample upper and lower storage.

Bathroom for four
Because Wallace is suite style, students share a bathroom with three other students.

Wallace costs $4,430 for a double room per academic year.
