Develop innovative components and systems to advance computer technology in everything from medical equipment and automobiles to power grids and mobile devices. Computer engineers focus on the hardware - software interface.

ABOUT YOUR DEGREE PATH

Computer Engineering majors take introductory courses in physics, mathematics and computer science to develop a solid foundation on these fundamentals during their first year.

Sophomore year introduces you to more advanced courses in computer science, computer engineering and electrical circuits. Develop your individual interests through the selection of technical electives.

Junior year provides breadth in electrical and computer engineering and computer science, including electronics, signals and systems, computer architecture, software engineering and operating systems.

Seniors participate in our nationally-recognized Senior Capstone Design Program, where students learn to design, test and build a computer engineering system.
